

It is wise and within the interests of a more diverse and more comprehensive provision of the news to leave the rules in place which prohibit the ownership of a newspapers and TV stations within the same geographic location.

If these types of deregulation are successful in passing, we will experience a decline in the diversity of the news sources.

For some short sighted "lost in the dark in their own room" power corruption and lies type beings, this de-regulation may serve in the short term, and I will also caution them that life is not a joke. For them the "quick grab" at what they percieve to be power may just end up being the move that leaves them someplace they really do not wish to be. Tell your boss and his petro-thugs, to face

Face Great Spirit willingly before it is too late and it is forced upon them.

Peace and Conciousness will always prevail, not control and viloence.....
